How Gen Z's digital lifestyle is changing fintechs' ops

Fintechs are now tailoring features to win GenZ early on in their financial journey

Sowmya Ramasubramanian & Mansi Verma

BENGALURU/MUMBAI

Bouyed by higher starting salaries and more disposable income, Gen Z—people born after 1996—are leading the transformation in the financial services business.

Fintechs such as e-commerce platform Flipkart-backed super.money, Grip Broking Pvt. Ltd, and Scapia Technology Pvt. Ltd, are now tailoring features to win them early in their financial journey. From product design shifting from long-term, rigid products to flexible, high-engagement tools matching younger users' short attention spans and appetite for control, fintechs are rethinking their offerings.

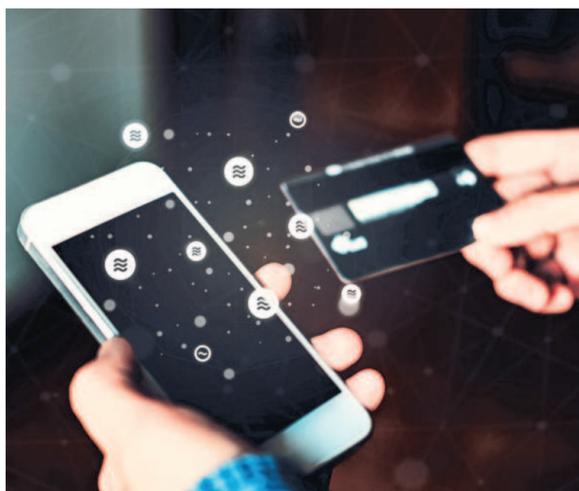

Stride Ventures and Anicut Capital-backed retail investment platform Grip Invest introduced the "sell anytime" feature in March, allowing investors to sell bonds at any time after holding them for two months.

Early results show improved retention, higher engagement, and lower customer acquisition costs. Grip's customer acquisition costs dropped by 25% as a result of higher conversion rates from new and existing users, according to Vaibhav Laddha, chief executive of the company.

"Most bonds are considered illiquid due to longer maturity periods. We launched the feature to create instant liquidity as the new generation is averse to long-term investment commitments," Laddha told Mint.

In July, the number of users under 25 years using Grip's services grew 5x year-on-year, underscoring the appetite among youngsters for alternative assets and fixed-income products.

Payments app super.money (Scapic Innovations Pvt. Ltd) has introduced a rewards system that ships cashback on UPI payments made through its platform directly to the user's bank account. The feature has helped boost engagement rates by 2.5x over the last few months, with the number of transactions per user per month nearly dou-

Peak XV-backed travel-focused fintech startup Scapia has also seen increasing interest from Gen Z for its travel now, pay later offering. "A stand-out behavioural shift is their use of EMIs. One-fifth of Gen Z travel bookings on Scapia are through EMIs. Prod-bling to 40. The platform had about 10 million monthly active users—with an average age of 26-27 years—as of July. "We stayed away from coins and other rewards because there is general mistrust among users about their utility on digital platforms," said Prakash Sikaria, the founder of super.money.

ucts like TNPL empower them to manage their budgets while still pursuing these distinctive travel choices," said Anil Goteti, founder CEO, Scapia.

Comparatively, other age groups only use this feature 13-15% of the time. Other financial services players, such as Slice Small Finance Bank Ltd, are also betting big on India's 300 million underserved but credit-worthy users.

Slice recently introduced a UPI-linked credit card that allows users to make QR code-based UPI payments using their approved credit limit. Rajan Bajaj, founder and CEO, Slice, had earlier told Mint that 5 million users have accessed Slice credit till June.

India boasts the youngest workforce population with a median age of 28 years, according to the Economic Survey of India 2024-25.

"There is a huge market opportunity around young professionals and even teenagers who are drawing their first paycheck and require more personalized solutions. They don't wish to manage money like older people do—they prefer agile, dynamic wealth management solutions over those offered by traditional banks and advisors," said Anirudh Garg, partner at venture capital firm Beencent, backer of BharatPe, Jupiter, and Smallcase, among others.

Younger users have a higher propensity to do it yourself investing, and many prefer to educate themselves rather than rely on traditional advisors, Grip's Laddha said. Grip launched the "quick start" feature to allow first-time investors to invest as low as ₹100 and allow them to withdraw within short maturity windows.

Grip's "filter and compare" feature—which allows users to compare investment options on parameters like risk, return, and liquidity—is seeing 30% higher conversion rates among users who use the feature versus those who don't, Laddha said.

Super.money is also looking to introduce commerce on its platform to enhance user engagement. On 26 July, it introduced a flight booking option for users to transact more frequently.

Fractal files draft papers for ₹4.9K cr share sale

MUMBAI

Mumbai-based artificial intelligence (AI) and analytics firm Fractal Analytics on Wednesday filed its draft red herring prospectus with the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) for a ₹4,900 crore initial public offering (IPO) targeted by the end of this financial year.

The company seeks to raise ₹1,279.3 crore in fresh capital, while existing investors will collectively sell shares worth ₹3,620.7 crore under the offer for sale option, the filing showed. Selling shareholders include Quinag Bidco Ltd (an Apax Partners vehicle), TPG, GLM Family Trust, Satya Kumari Remala, and Rao Venkateswara Remala.

Last month, Mint was the first to report that the company is preparing to file draft papers for a listing after several delays and has hired Kotak Mahindra Capital, Morgan Stanley India, Axis Capital, and Goldman Sachs (India) to help with the issue. The company is targeting a valuation of more than $3 billion.

The Apax Funds-backed firm had first planned to go public in 2021 but deferred its plans amid weak market conditions.

Fractal will now join a growing list of Indian startups, including Pine Labs, Curefoods, Capillary Technologies, Lenskart, Shiprocket, Groww, and Urban Co., that have filed draft IPO papers in recent months. Others such as Physics Wallah and Bluestone are also expected to go public soon.
